The aim of Transget.org is to set up a freely unconditional, voluntary funding portal on an international level.

Background:

Associations and organizations of various sizes and priorities, support their projects by using online payment systems and donation portals. The principle of a donation whether online or by conventional ways, depends on the scale and size and is often criticized based on its sustainability of use. What these donations will be used for (e. g. projects, money, food or clothes) is decided by the organization that stands between donors and people in need.

- Transget.org wants to reinforce and break the former association between donors and recipients and change it to a direct and equal relationship.
- Transget.org accomplishes this by bringing in a new concept where the donor also becomes a recipient. Everyone who donates will be involved in a pay out of the collected money. This project is based on the norm of reciprocity.

This project does not distinguish between those who have the possibility to donate and those in need. It benefits everyone and brings everyone together using a donation network without hierarchy. The aim of this project is an independent execution of transactions on a technical level, which should prevent any false investing of money or discrimination of individuals.

It also aims to raise the financial situation of those in need as even small amounts can greatly help in surviving the daily struggle.

Idea:

The donor:

Each participant has the opportunity to add donations on the Transget.org online payment account (e. g. via letter of referral, Internet Banking, etc.) within a fixed amount of time (e. g. one month). The amount and frequency of payments can be freely selected within this time.

The account:

There is a safe account into which all participants pay various amounts of money. The money will be collected into this account until the end of the given time frame. The account is governed by legal supervisors and participants must verify themselves with a valid ID, etc. so a double registration is not possible.

Disbursement:

What makes Transget.org unique from other online donation portals is that at the end of the month, the collected amount is divided by the number of participants and transferred back to their respective accounts.

Purpose:

The total amount will be paid back in (divided into the number of participants) at the end of the given time frame to every participant. Transget.org desires to attract individuals who see this form of social solidarity as an interesting alternative to given systems and who are willing to make monthly or single payments. This system is open and freely accessible to all and participation is voluntary, as well as the amount of the sum paid. However, the aim is to encourage people to deposit more money on a regular basis. Depending on the average sum paid by each individual there could eventually be a worthy income for every participant. The novelty of this system and the difference from traditional projects (e. g. donations) is that each person is involved and included in the monthly pay out. Most importantly, Transget.org puts the donors and the receivers on an equal level.

The First steps:

The first step in establishing this project is to find an official online payment system which would support this project and forgo the extra bank charges, transfer fees or any other costs for future participants in this social project. Secondly a detailed website would need to be programmed. It would require a programmer, a designer and someone for public relations to advertise Transget.org.

How your Company Benefits:

The benefit for supporting this project is that new customers are attracted to your company. All participants need to make payments and receive money with their online account which they set up though your company. Each participant must open an online account which is connected with your payment system to join this project and donate and receive money. In the future, your company has the likelihood of an enlarged customer base and high potential turnover in other payment/shopping areas using your online payment system. How does that sound to you?
